SUPPORTS PIRATE PRODUCTIONS

AND WISHES YOU ALL

A VERY PLEASANT EVENING

Pirate Productions
asbl

Pirate Productions asbl has been entertaining the Luxembourg public ever since their inaugural show "The Pirates of Penzance", a collaborative venture with the American School of Luxembourg in 1979. Producing exclusively musicals, Pirates initially performed principally Gilbert & Sullivan operettas, later branching out into pantomime, music hall, reviews and, more recently, a variety of West End and Broadway shows including "Fiddler on the Roof" (1995), "Oklahoma" (1997) and Steven Sondheim's "Company" (2002).

Pirates is, of course, a non-profit organisation, excess profits being donated to a variety of charities. The rising cost of putting on productions, however (in particular the cost of large theatre hire) means that often little or no profit is made and donations cannot be made in certain years.

Pirates, though an Anglophone theatre society, prides itself on being very international - we may sing in English, but anyone is very welcome to come and join us, whether it be actually performing on the stage or in any one of the myriad of other roles which are needed to put on productions. So, if you have a yearning to be involved with theatre, help is at hand - there is a Pirates' application form at the back of this programme. Just fill it in, send it to us and in no time at all, you'll find yourself doing things you never thought were possible! Throughout the year the committee aims to organise a variety of social evenings, generally with a musical theme of one sort or another, for members to get together. A more or less six-weekly newsletter keeps everyone informed of any up-and-coming events, not only within Pirates but of interest to theatre-lovers in general, i.e. plays by other clubs, visiting theatre groups, etc.

All that remains to be said is that I, as chairman of Pirates for the third time and director of the show you are about to see, thoroughly enjoy doing what we do and I hope that, whether you are involved with Pirates as a member or support us through coming to watch our shows, you also enjoy the productions we put on and I hope that you will continue to lend your support in the future.

Thank you and enjoy the show!

Steve Preston (Chairman)

About Pantomime

To the English (and the Scots, the Welsh and the Irish) the word « pantomime », which in French means « a mime show », has quite a different connotation. It is something special – a family outing to the theatre, a treat for Christmas or New Year, an evening of uproarious fun – in short, a sort of musical play, but with a difference. This form of entertainment has never, unfortunately, proved popular in the U.S., although it has been enjoyed in Canada, Australia and South Africa.

It has its roots in the Middle Ages and Morality Plays, although the Italian Commedia dell'Arte and the British Music Hall have contributed much to its traditions. From the Commedia dell'Arte we get Arlecchino and Columbina, the Young Lovers, Pantaloon, the Overbearing Father, the Comic Servant and the Unsuitable Suitor. Slapstick, much used in modern Pantomime, evolved from the transition of Commedia dell'Arte to England, where Italian was not spoken and the plays were performed in silent mime. The first use of the word “pantomime” for such a performance appeared in the early 18th Century.

British Music Hall contributed the character of the Dame, often a popular comedian on “the Halls” (and therefore a man) dressed as a woman, usually the hero's mother, and that of the Principal Boy, the hero played by a young woman. Women were allowed to dress as men only if they were playing male roles, and, in the mid Nineteenth century, this was of interest to men, who only ever saw “ladies” dressed properly in long skirts and high necks! The Ugly Sisters in Cinderella, now usually played by men, were however originally played by women in Rossini's opera “La Cenerentola”, premiered in Rome in 1817.

The fun and games of pantomime plots are supplemented by songs (often popular songs of the day), energetic dancing and glorious costumes. One of the other conventions is some standard repartee with the audience—for the un-initiated, below are some of the pantomime “standards” which may come off the stage at you, together with the standard pantomime response which you are encouraged to yell back!

What do you think of the show so far?

Rubbish!

Oh yes it is!

Oh, no it isn't!

Well I can't see it – do you know where it is?

It's behind you!

Candy Morrison - Cinderella

Candy has always dreamed of playing a princess' role, as when she was younger her younger sister always took ALL the girl parts as she had the long hair! At school, Candy dabbled in Shakespeare before exchanging her courtier costume for a feather boa in a number of less classical plays including 'No xxx please we're British', 'Daisy Pulls it Off' and two Ayckbourn farces for a local drama group.

Candy made her first Luxembourg appearance as a feathered cockney in 'Me and my Girl', trying to chat up the locals! This was followed by 'Camino Real' where she spent the entire play selling love wrapped in white down. This time in Cinderella, Candy has finally found her very own Prince both on and off stage. She wishes that all your dreams come true too - with or without feathers!

Janice Allgrove - Prince Charming

Janice has been in all of the pirate shows since 1996, but this is a first for her to appear as a man! Have you ever tried waltzing the wrong way round?

Janice came to Luxembourg in 1995 and first worked in a bank where she met Simon Critchlow (Pirate's treasurer). In true treasurer's fashion, Simon had her signed up to subscribing to the Pirate's newsletter before ever seeing a show! Once involved she was hooked and no one has been able to get her off the stage since. Janice has 7 part time jobs at present and it must be said that this unconventional working environment suits her personality well!

Alex Teligadas - Bubble

"Cinderella" is a new experience for Alex: he plays a woman (his first) who wears an extraordinarily large bra containing Jello implants (his first & definitely last), and he has discovered such mythic cult figures as Bobby Moore and Cleo Lane. Although he remains puzzled about certain aspects of British humour, he is determined to keep abreast of all his lines and songs, and will do his breast to prevent the show going tits-up!

Alex's first stage appearance was in Easy Productions' "Beyond Therapy" in 1996. He joined Pirates in 1997 for "Oklahoma!" and they haven't been able to get rid of him since: he has pranced about the stage in "Grand Old Duke of York", "Showbitz!", "Curtain Call", "Me & My Girl" and "Company". He also appeared in NWTC's "A Celebration of Peter Sellers" and "Never Again - Jamais Plus - Nie Wieder", a European School production.

Alex is also involved in cartoon voice-overs and dubbing, giving voices to cartoon characters of various shapes, sizes & colors. His most enjoyable role was to record the voice of Puck in "Tristan & Isolde", a full-length film by Oniria Pictures. Finally, he has appeared (very briefly!) in various films made in Luxembourg: "An American Werewolf in Paris", "Crush Depth", "Wing Commander" and "The First 9½ Weeks".

Monday - Saturday 10.00 - 18.00 Sunday 8.30 - 13.00

Brian Parker - Squeek

Plucked from the relative safety of the George & Dragon pub in 1995 and press-ganged into Fiddler on the Roof to play "some bloke". Brian has been involved with almost every Pirates show since then.

He has played "some geezer" in the Old-Time Music Hall, Ali Hakim in Oklahoma, "another bloke" in Curtain Call and a "Surly Man" in NWTC's Lettice and Lovage. In Showbitz he got in the way backstage.

In addition to his distinguished acting career he also directs.

Pirates' previous pantomime "The Grand Old Duke of York" was a co-directing job along with Karim Hyatt (Buttons in Cinderella) and more recently he took on Pirates' first attempt at a Stephen Sondheim musical with last year's successful production of Company.

He gave up film work after spending all Saturday night freezing to death in a field in Esch playing a special forces doctor. Although he got to touch Rob Lowe he decided it wasn't worth it.

He has always wanted to play an Ugly Sister or Hamlet.

Karim Hyatt - Buttons

Apart from a few school performances, notably as the wolf in Peter and the Wolf, Karim Hyatt appeared as The Wicked Wizard in Hickway Dickoway Dock, King Rat in Dick Whittington, Tegeus in A Phoenix Too Frequent, Bruce in Beyond Therapy, Peter in Company, the MC for Showbitz and participated in a few sets of A Curtain Call.

He also directed The Monkey's Paw, Same Time Next Year, and, in conjunction with Brian Parker, the last Pantomime The Grand Old Duke of York.

Sometimes, he can even be seen appearing as part of The Accidentals - a cabaret group who perform at various functions two or three times a year.

Never having played a nice person - even in real life - Buttons is a completely new experience he intends to milk for all it's worth. So eyes peeled for a lot of overacting!

Carol Abel - Dandini

Carol, a member of NWTC and Pirate Productions, has been an am-dram enthusiast for many years with particular interest in participating in Munsbach summer schools and performing in musical productions.

First appeared in the NWTC production of 'There's a girl in my soup' and subsequently with Pirate Productions in 'Fiddler on the Roof', 'Oklahoma', 'Curtain Call' and most recently 'Me and My Girl'.

Currently singing with VOX choir.

Wishes that her job allowed her more freedom to tread the boards more often.

Claire Wolseley - Fairy Godmother

This is Claire's second Pirates production, the first being Me & my Girl (for which she was actually five months pregnant with her daughter). An active interest in musical theatre started from her involvement in the Cambridge University Gilbert and Sullivan Society where she was in a wide range of productions from Iolanthe to the Grand Duke via the Mikado. She also had the role of Liesl in 'the Sound of Music' at the Cambridge Corn Exchange (sixteen going on seventeen going on twenty-three).

Post-university, teaching at a boarding school in Edinburgh allowed Claire to expand into back-stage, stage managing and choreography, as well as performing in the odd staff play.

Claire has embraced the Luxembourg am-dram scene whether it be wearing large dresses on stage or procuring such props as a rubber chicken (Act 1 Scene 2). She can also be heard most Sundays singing soprano in the ESCC choir.

Matthew Kahn - Evil Sorcerer

Matthew first trod the boards in High School as the fiery orator Daniel Webster. Luckily, a brief enrolment in a university drama program cured him of considering thespianism as a way of life. Still, "once bitten, twice rabid", as they say and on encountering Pirates' Productions during the Triassic period of its evolution joined in the chorus of "H.M.S. Pinafore." Singing lustily, if not in key, he acquitted himself admirably by assisting the backstage crew well enough to earn a much-coveted membership in the Loyal and Fraternal Order of Amateur Back-Stage Hands (Luxembourg).

Taking a hiatus from front-of-house in order to raise the next generation of Pirates, he took to labouring in cold barns in aid of producing the sets for a number of productions for the NWTC including "Knightsbridge" and "Wait Until Dark". A reckless disregard for the traditions surrounding the performance of "Macbeth" left him hospitalised and understandably leery of playing with theatrical fire.

Putting a toe back in the turbulent waters of performance, by taking the role of Orthodox priest in Pirates' "Fiddler on the Roof", proved safe enough to warrant exploration of the grand Olde English tradition of the "pantomime" where he finds himself typecast as the villain.

Claire Wilkie - Sorcerer's Apprentice

I've been messing around in school plays since I knew they existed at seven years old and haven't stopped since! Anyway, non-school stage experience was being a rat in Dick Whittington, a maid in Me & My Girl, a 'various' in Camino Real and I was in the Murder Mystery Dinner in November.

I've been an extra in three films: being a Brownie (Brownie guide not the little pixie which would have probably been more fun), a French schoolgirl and a partygoer.

Valerie Scott - Baroness Gloria Hardup

Valerie joined Pirates, by chance, in 1997 after a 25 year period of 'resting' and has been in all the productions since whether by design or by accident. She seems to be the resident 'wicked witch' for the Pirates and this production sees that trend continuing as she plays the evil stepmother.

In addition to being on stage, Valerie volunteered to take on the role of producer with no clear idea of what this might entail. She has enjoyed being producer and decided that a fair description of her back stage part would be that of a general nag bag - a sort of evil stepmother character off-stage - a double whammy!

She came to Luxembourg in 1991 after several tours of duty in other European countries and the Far East. When not on stage, she is the country co-ordinator for Open University activities in the Saar-Lor-Lux Region and seems set to stay for a good few more years.

Stuart Alexander - Baron Hardup

A long standing member of Pirates Stuart first appeared in Patience some 20 years hence. A Gilbert and Sullivan trooper (Utopia Ltd) he has sung his way through all the Savoy Operas in one guise or another and directed the last G & S produced in Luxembourg (Mikado). Cinderella was his first panto, in Brussels, where he played a memorable bearded fairy godmother. As a member of the Wagstaff team took his comedy very seriously in a multitude of roles.

Having played Sir John in "Me and My Girl" and now Baron Hardup in "Cinderella" wonders if he isn't getting rather typecast.

Chris Bearne - The King

Chris has been around happenings theatrical in Luxembourg these twenty years and has tried his hand at most things. He claims acting talents that span the alphabet ... from A to B.

He first appeared in musical comedy in 1966 and All That and is tickled to be back, now in his third Pirates show. Along the way he's dabbled in all sorts from Sophocles to Neil Simon ; Shakespeare to Beckett.

A dozen or more Luxembourg-made films offer the odd glimpse of, and a word or two from Chris. He seems to have found a niche handing out advice (usually doctorly) to the likes of Stockard Channing and Martin Landau, which they then ignore...Oh, and zero-wardrobe-budgeted work for Peter Greenaway (The Pillow Book).

Chris's other "things" are making stuff (sets and props) and organising the Summer Theatre School at Munsbach Château every August (if you want to know more, check with <Munsbach>).

Simon Critchlow - Broker's Man

Since Simon's theatrical career started at school he has played many small roles and a few not so small roles in a variety of productions, both drama and musicals. He has also spent many hours performing backstage tasks, principally set-building, scenery-shifting and props.

Simon joined 'Pirates' in 1982 for his first ever musical production, "Patience" and has never looked back - he would like to be able to demonstrate to his infant school teacher that she got it wrong when she said he couldn't sing! Recently, in "Curtain Call", he sang barbershop and in the musical "Me and My Girl" he played a footman and an ancestor.

Other proud moments include productions at college in which he played Gerald in "An Inspector Calls" and directed "Outward Bound" by Sutton Vane.

With NWTC he has most notably played John, a basket-bearing servant, in "The Merry Wives of Windsor" and co-managed props for "Neville's Island".

Steve Wilkie - Sergeant Pinky

After playing third shepherd in his Sunday school nativity play (1962), his next appearance on stage was as a sailor and hand-jiving eunuch in "Dick Whittington" in 1992; this came about mainly because his daughter Claire was a rat at the time. Was tempted back for "Grand Old Duke of York" in 1998, and was rewarded with a couple of lines.

Since then he keeps turning up to auditions. In "Curtain Call" (1999) he sang barbershop harmony and helped redefine the Sand Dance. "Me and My Girl" (2001) saw him as a dancing solicitor.

He has also appeared with NWTC as a singing loan shark in "Camino Real" and as a dodgy doctor in "The Curse of the Klondike Diamond" (2002).

His two daughters are determined to upstage him.

Christina Hudgins - WPC Perky

Christina's previous musical theatre experience includes "Carnival" and "Oliver", in which she played the parts of Widow Corney and Mrs. Bumble.

Last year saw her performing in the NWTC production of "Camino Real".

This year, while performing in this Pirates' production of "Cinderella", she is also directing and playing the part of Rizzo in a high school production of "Grease", which will be performed in March.

Steve Anderson - The Messenger

Steve proclaims his biggest acting job to date was the role of an American naval officer. That role behind him after 20 years, and looking for a new challenge, he joined Pirate Productions in 1999, with miscellaneous roles in "Curtain Call". In 2000 he sang in the Pirates' 21st Anniversary Celebration show. In 2001 he played Brian, a member of the one-hit-wonder band 'The Shepherd Sisters' in Chas Warlow's NWTC production "We Three Kings". 2002 found him in NWTC's "Camino Real" as one of Herr Gutman's officers, whose scowling omnipresence was designed to intimidate both cast and audience. Steve spends much of his free time 'nurturing' Voices International Community Choir, which raises funds for charities by performing numerous public and private shows each year. He proudly admits to being a founding member and is their committee chairman.

Stephanie Daer - King's Dance Partner

I first became involved with Pirates completely by accident, when Carole Williams put up a poster at work asking for anyone willing to help with the production of "Me & My Girl". Having first thought of a backstage role, before I knew what had happened I was dressed as a Cockney Tart and found I was thoroughly enjoying myself. I did crew for "Company", and managed to make it look like I really did mean to throw a drink over John Hall and Hilary Guerra on the penultimate performance, but unfortunately could not replicate this for the final show. Cinderella is my 3rd 'experience' with Pirates.

The Chorus

Erin and Robyn Kahn—Dobbin

Erin - "Cinderella" is the second Pirates production I have been in, the first being the last pantomime they put on, "The Grand Old Duke Of York". I have immensely enjoyed being in both, although this is the first time I've had to play only half a character. Even though I've gotten a lot of stick from my friends about being the back end of a horse, and heard all manner of possible jokes and puns on the subject, I don't think I would trade my part for any other in the entire play. Being able to make people laugh just by walking on stage is a lot of fun and very gratifying. The only other thing I've done which required some acting was a job I had when I was ten doing voice-overs for a children's cartoon (unfortunately, it was cancelled).

Robyn - Though my family has done a bit of work with Pirate Productions before (my sister in "the Grand Old Duke Of York" and my parents met doing "HMS Pinafore"), this is a first for me. It has been great fun and I wouldn't have missed it for the world. Once again, the rest of my family has been very active as well - my dad as the Evil Sorcerer, my sister has been my ever-present companion in the antics of our horse and my mom made the horse costume in her spare time, so it has become a real family activity. And it's a hell of a lot of fun to tell people I'm playing half a horse - I might even put it on my resumé!

Steve Preston - Director

Steve arrived in Luxembourg in 1989 with no theatrical pedigree whatsoever (unless you count a stage debut at the age of 12 playing Lady Bracknell in Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest" (no, there's nothing suspicious about that, it was an all-boys school!)).

Soon after his arrival a work colleague suggested he might like to join the chorus of the Pirates' pantomime "Hickory Dickory Dock", which had just started rehearsals. Despite having no clue about acting, dancing or singing, he agreed and has never looked back since.

Over the intervening years he has been in most Pirates' shows (despite having left the country twice - once to live in Frankfurt for a year and, most recently, to spend two and a half purgatorial years in Singapore). Surprised to find himself in charge of an extremely powerful tenor/baritone voice, he has put it to good use in such comic character roles as Pooh-Bah in "The Mikado" (1996), Baron Snatcher in "The Grand Old Duke of York" (1997) and Monsieur Thenardier in the 'Les Miserables' sequence of "Showbitz" (1998).

"Cinderella" is his first outing as Director - having debuted as Producer for the 2001 production of Steven Sondheim's "Company", he is slowly working his way through the various different off-stage roles involved in shows and hopes to have completed a full set by about 2010 (he does, however, draw the line at trying his hand at choreography as he knows that there is a limit to people's patience!!).

A gentleman of leisure since returning from Singapore, he is open to any offers of highly-lucrative employment (as long as it's nothing too taxing).

Alan Carlisle - Musical Director

Alan Carlisle has been involved with Pirates almost since its inception. He was parachuted in (from Manchester) to sing the part of Nanki-Poo in "The Mikado" in 1981, discovered the delights of Luxembourg and never looked back.

He has appeared in many Pirates shows including their previous production of "Cinderella" twenty-one years ago, in which he played one of the Ugly Sisters: "The Fantasticks" (Matt); and the decennial production of "The Pirates of Penzance" in which he sang the part of Frederick, the pirate 'prentice.

Increasing greyness having diminished the audiences' willingness to suspend disbelief (never very great), he now confines himself to musical direction - previous shows in this capacity include "Ruddigore", "Fiddler on the Roof", and "The Grand Old Duke of York".

In the saner (differently sane?) world outside the theatre he directs the local chaplaincy choir, plays French horn with the Luxembourg Philharmonia and earns his living programming computers.

Geoff Stevens - Stage Manager

Geoff first found the delights of the footlights only eight years ago. "Dancing at Lughnasa" with the Round Tower Players, but this experience was enough to make him realise he just loved being on stage. Perhaps the shy, quiet and retiring Geoff in real life can come alive behind the make-up or perhaps he just likes wearing make-up, who will ever know. But various performances on various stages in various guises have followed over the last eight years.

Not wishing to be too much of a prima donna, Geoff has also worked behind the scenes, stage managing, doing props, sweeping the stage and he is very happy taking the role of Stage Manager for the Pirates production of "Cinderella".

But don't worry fans, he'll be back on stage this year, of that you can be fairly certain.

Dominique Vitali - Choreographer

Dominique Vitali, born auspiciously on Friday the 13th, joined Pirates in Summer 2002 as choreographer for this production.

He started dancing at the age of nine, while his friends joined the local football club. He spent 12 years in France working as a professional dancer, being involved in a variety of different productions for stage, film and television.

For the last 30 years his feet have 'tripped the light fantastic' using a variety of styles, including Ballet, Ballroom, Latin, Tap, Flamenco and Modern Jazz.

He retired from his active dancing career with 2 French professional titles in his pocket (or are they in his shoes?)

Today, he works in public relations for a Luxembourgish company, as well as continuing as a choreographer - as they say 'once a dancer, always a dancer'. His childhood pals haven't played football in years...!

Liz Turner - Recitateur and Set Designer/Painter

Liz Turner is one of the most irreplaceable members of the "Cinderella" crew. In addition to tirelessly accompanying the cast throughout rehearsals, Liz is the driving force behind the design and painting of the set.

A piano teacher by day, by night Liz can be found exercising her musical talents in a wide variety of arenas, whether it be accompanying Pirates, Voices International or The Christmas Tree Singers or singing in the ESCC church choir.
